Basic Dog Obedience Tips

It's so important to have a dog that's well behaved. For anyone who has just bought their first puppy or even if they adopted an older dog, there are certain dog obedience tips they must enforce. It's not about being mean or cruel to a dog, it's about teaching them how to act appropriately so they are house-trained and act proper in public places. In fact, if you just want to teach your dog the basics there are a few dog obedience tips that are going to be enough for you.

The most important dog obedience tips are about sitting

Every dog should at least know how to sit, and fortunately this is one of the easiest dog obedience tips to teach a dog. While there are certainly more interesting tricks a dog could learn, this is one of the most basic and most important by far.

Find a quiet location where the dog will be able to focus, and you can either use treats or any other form of positive reinforcement which will be rewarded to the dog after they listen and comply to your order. Each time you see that the dog is going to sit on its own you want to tell them to sit. When he does you praise him like a mad person. You may also want to use treats or just a nice pat on the head. This must be done immediately after the dog has sat down, so they know what you are rewarding them for.

Positive dog obedience tips

The most important thing is to make sure that you have some sort of positive reinforcement you are going to be able to use here. Remember, it can be a bit of a challenge especially with the older dogs but using dog obedience tips will be more than worth it in the end. You don't want to own a dog that you are constantly going to have to be yelling at and disciplining. Training your dog with dog obedience tips will give you a well-socialized and house-trained dog that will be enjoyable and pleasant to be around.
