Many of the top pop singers, socialites, and Hollywood stars carry around their toy dog in a dog purse carrier. Most of us are not prepared to lay out the large sums demanded for those snazzy designer brand dog purse carriers. That does not mean we cannot carry our dog in style. Before running out to buy your own dog purse carrier think about what features you will really need.

Will you use it for running errands or for long trips in the car? Does it need to match the style and colors of your current wardrobe? It is important to set your budget before heading out to the stores. The selection of dog purse carriers can be a little overwhelming. You can spend anywhere from $30 to several thousand. They can be made in many styles and from a variety of materials such as genuine leather, crocodile, and shocking pink.

Each dog purse carrier is designed to accommodate a dog of a particular size. It is not a good idea to try and stuff a dog into a carrier which is too small. The dog needs to be comfortable and have plenty of vents to breathe. At least three sizes of the carrier should include air vents. One thing to think about when purchasing a dog purse carrier is whether it has a strong bottom which makes your dog feel secure.

Take some time to feel around inside the carrier to ensure that it is soft and does not have any hard pieces which can harm your dog. Also think about special touches and accessories you need your carrier to include. Some of the high fashion dog purse carrier can include outside pockets, cell phone cases, and matching dog coats and purses. Take some time to decide if you need a sporty style or something more formal.
